DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7, 10-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over King 6,745,079. King teaches the uses of an implantable lead and the injection of 4 columns of charge to elicit the desired neural response. The amount of charge is known from taking the current and multiplying it by the pulse width. (column 9 lines 20-30). While King does not teach how the amount of charge is determined, it would have been obvious to determine the response empirically, testing on electrode and then setting the others to a comparable charge amount when the tissue is the same type for the same response and testing other electrodes when different tissues and different responses are evoked. Applicant's method is nothing more than the determination of a threshold amount of charge to elicit the desired response by charting the response versus the stimulation and defining a minimum acceptable response as an axis. Such is desired as noted by King to prevent the generation of hydrogen and oxygen gases. Measuring the responses for both positive and negative peaks to determine the optimum charge injection for each so that the stimulation may be altered to reduce polarization is considered obvious.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7, 10-20 have been considered but are not deemed persuasive. Although it may be true that certain nerve fibers may have different activation parameters this is not universally true. It actually various types of nerve fibers have the same activation energy parameters as in King and thus to determine one and apply it to all similar fibers would have been obvious.
